THROUGH THE YEARS of 1858 to 1958 the dedication and dream of one man have grown and flourished beyond the original goal and purpose. With the help of a church, Trinity Lutheran, a town, Selinsgrove, and a faith and belief in the work to be done a foundation was laid for an institution of learning which was to far outgrow its original intent. This dedicated man who provided the basis for this foundation, was the Reverend Doctor Benjamin Kurtz. It was he, who in 1858, founded and became first president of Missionary Institute, the forerunner of Susquehanna University.

Dr. Kurtz had been impressed by the need for another institution of learning for the ministry of the Lutheran Church. Since the usual course of preparation was eight or ten years in length he decided to establish a Theological School in which men "regardless of age or marriage ties, might, by a course in Theology of two to three years in length, be qualified to preach the gospel acceptably." Through this he hoped to fill the need of the church for ministers and so opened the Theological Department of Missionary Institute, in connection with a Collegiate Department, in a room of Trinity Church in October of 1858.

Because Missionary Institute was designed for men and overlooked the fairer sex, the congregation of Trinity Church proposed and successfully initiated Susquehanna Female College as a "twin sister" of the Institute and to meet the educational demands of the period. By 1873, however, a few changes were made in the student body of Missionary Institute. Susquehanna Female College closed its doors and the Institute, faced with the rising tide of women's equality, became a co-educational institution. Not long after, in 1895, another innovation was added for the name, Missionary Institute, gave way to a new one and became known as Susquehanna University.

From the early beginnings of the University, the citizens of Selinsgrove and, more particularly, the congregation of Trinity Lutheran Church had been very actively interested in the development of this higher institution of learning. John App, one of the leading citizens of the community, contributed the land upon which the campus was to be formed and, along with others in the town, supplied necessary funds needed to begin the institution.

The first building to be erected on the campus was appropriately called Selinsgrove Hall. By 1909 the campus could boast of Seibert Hall, a gym and Gustavus Adolphus Hall. Since the building of these early structures there have been several more added to the campus. Among these later buildings were Hassinger Hall, a dormitory, a science building, Steele Science, a newer gym and a library. More recent than these, a classroom building, Bogar Hall, was completed in 1951. This year, the Centennial Year has been climaxed with the dedication of Heilman Hall, a new conservatory of music and, in the near future the new wing of the library, which is now under construction, will be completed and be able to offer Susquehanna's student body better reference and study facilities.

Students, then as now, enjoyed other diversions besides the pursuit of knowledge. Two of the first organizations on campus were the Clonian and Philosophian Societies. Both these societies held out against women members but they too eventually succumbed.

Soon after the societies came the fraternal organizations. These fraternities, too, have played an important role in the history of Susquehanna. The first one on campus was a local one called Bond and Key. Later, two national fraternities were added, that of Phi Mu Delta and Theta Chi. In 1957, however, Bond and Key officially became a chapter of the national fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha.

The three social sororities have had a much shorter history than those of the fraternities for it was not until 1950 that national sororities were permitted on campus. There had been two local groups in existence for several years and they became affiliates of Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Delta. In the fall of 1957 another national group was added that of Alpha Xi Delta. Along with these social sororities, Susquehanna also boasts a music fraternity for women known as Sigma Alpha Iota.

The social life of the campus is of great importance to these groups but the aims of these groups are not purely social. Each holds as true ideals the high standards of the University, that of the worth of a college education and a Christian life.

Entertainment, in the form of plays and shows was given by the students in the Selinsgrove Odd Fellows Hall. Glee Club, picnics, and parades were all a part of the social life of the campus. Many of these activities have stayed with us in the form of the Susquehanna Players who represent the dramatic minded of the campus. The Glee Club has been surpassed by the talented members of the Chapel Choir. There remain however, the parades with the band and impromptu picnics along with the extra added attractions of concerts by the band and orchestra and the Star Course lectures.

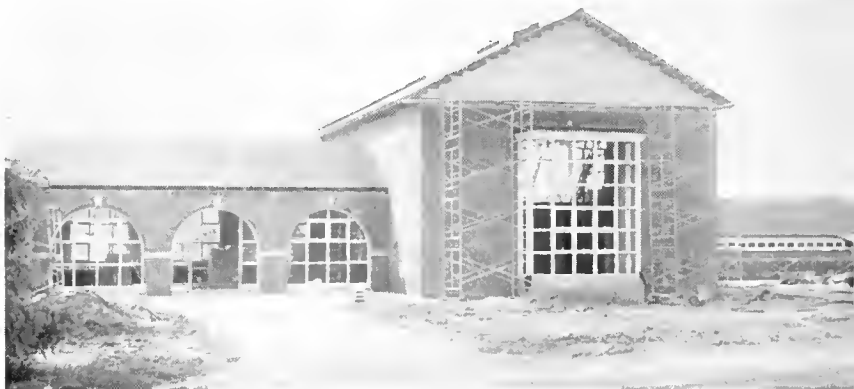

Not only social activities but athletic activities have always interested the students. Since the first football game with Sunbury in 1892 sports have played an important role in the extracurricular life of Susquehanna. Gradually the program expanded until it included not only varsity football, but basketball, baseball and track teams. There is also much emphasis placed on the intramural sports of both men and women.

In the varsity field, however, Susquehanna boasts quite a few undefeated football teams and not to be forgotten is the era of "the Grand Old Man of Football" Amos Alonzo Stagg, Sr. His few years of coaching here at Susquehanna will hardly be forgotten by those alumni and faculty who were privileged to see him at work. Not many schools can boast the privilege of having had assistance from this famous expert.

This year Susquehanna University became one hundred years old. Through these years she had grown and progressed from a dream into an institution of learning, high in ranking even though small in size. Her graduates in the different fields of Liberal Arts, Business, and Music have found themselves qualified to take their positions in society and are able to look back on their sojourn at Susquehanna with pride.

Times change. New buildings have been added, the old ones renovated. Each year that passes sees something new happen and of more importance than that which happened the preceding year. Each year students enter and leave but Susquehanna remains for there will always be students and the heart and meaning of any school, be it large or small, lies in the hearts of its students.

Editor's Note. For a more comprehensive history of Susquehanna University's first hundred years see the History of Susquehanna published in May of 1958.

CLASS OF 1959

DR. G. MORRIS SMITH

THE PRESIDENT

For almost one third of the life of Susquehanna University, it has been placed under the guidance of our present president, Dr. G. Morris Smith.

Dr. Smith's preparation for the ministry began at Roanoke College in 1907. He received his A.B. degree from Roanoke in 1911 and after a year's study at Princeton University he was awarded an A.M. degree. In 1919, Dr. Smith received his diploma from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. While he was preaching he never neglected his education, and as proof of his continuing interest and study he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from his Alma Mater, Roanoke College in 1928. Dr. Smith supplemented his graduate study by work at Columbia University and subsequently received the degree of LL.D. from Bucknell University.

Despite the demanding duties as president of Susquehanna University, Dr. Smith still finds time to maintain the policy of personal attention to each student. This is truly an outstanding tribute in this age of mass production and for this quality he shall long be remembered.

Dean of the University

DR. RUSSELL GALT

As dean of the University, Dr. Russell Galt has the overwhelming position of maintaining the proper esprit de corps between the students and faculty, the students and president. This task demands someone of versatile talents who is able to moderate both social and academic questions, routine and unique.

In preparation for his duties as dean, Dr. Galt has completed a varied course of studies. In 1919 he received his A.B. degree from Muskingum College. The following year he earned his M.A. degree from Columbia University. During that year Dr. Galt traveled to Cairo, Egypt, where he became dean of the American University and also studied at the School of Oriental Studies. He received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University in 1936.

In addition to his numerous obligations as dean of the university, Dr. Galt also applies his talent to the area of lecturing in the classroom as well as to the various organizations on campus. The stream of students who seek him out do so for different purposes, but they all go to Dean Galt knowing that here is a man upon whom they may rely with complete confidence.

ADMINISTRATION

Dean of Women

MISS RUTH A. MEISTER

The office of our dean of women, Miss Ruth A. Meister, is one of the busiest points on campus. Under her watchful eye the Women's Student Council, Women's Judiciary Committee, National Panhellenic Council and the general welfare of all women at Susquehanna University are cared for methodically.

Miss Meister received her A.B. degree from Marietta College in 1936 and the next year she was the recipient of the M.A. degree from Ohio State University. She has done subsequent graduate work at many places. Among these may be listed Paris, Cincinnati and New York.

Miss Meister is also an assistant professor of French to add to her already imposing number of functions on campus. Her vast knowledge in the field of etiquette and manners has made her an authority on the subject here at Susquehanna. For this reason she is often called in as a consultant for our more important social affairs. She is the very epitome of efficiency. Our dean of women shows meticulous organization in all of her efforts. If there is a job to be done, we can all be certain that she can get it done.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The governing of the student body is vested in two separate groups, the Women's Student Council and the Men's Student Council.

The Women's Student Council, led by its president, Thelma Rosetti, has power to make all the laws under which the women of Susquehanna University are governed. The Women's Judiciary Committee, an important part of this organization, is the law-enforcing body. It consists of one representative from each class, president of the Women's Student Council, the two house presidents and the dean of women who is an ex officio member.

The Men's Student Council under its president, Stanley DeCamp, endeavors to foster college spirit, govern the men of the college, effect a closer union of the students, and attend to all matters properly belonging to the general student body. The membership of the Men's Student Council includes two representatives from each fraternity, two from the non-fraternity group and one faculty adviser.

The Year In Retrospect

September eternally finds Susquehanna's campus bustling with bewildered frosh, crowding around the official-looking GA bulletin board. Some seek in vain, some in fulfillment as they find their table assignment. Soon the upperclassmen arrive and the freshman rules become a reality, as do Saturday classes and the beginning of the one hundredth year . . . the centennial year.

Football fills the air; along with the odor of burning leaves and fresh apple cider, and fall begins at Susquehanna. The team, all 470 of us, had a wonderful season.

"The south shall rise again . . . never!!" The klu klux klan, the torches, the alums and of course our own Queen Gail; all necessary ingredients for a most successful Homecoming, a Homecoming rising from the flu infected thoughts of the more ambitious students of our campus, but becoming a reality through the combined efforts of the entire student body and college community.

But all was not play. The freshmen learned the joy of coffee at nine a. m., the effectiveness of a few well spent hours in the library and the art of cramming . . . so much to do and so little time to THINK. The books were hit, and hit hard!

The snows came and the students moved inside. The beginning of the second semester gave us some free time for our minors in Snackbarology. The bulletin board was not to be bare for long!

Basketball season was over too quickly for the sports fans, but the gym soon resounded with the sounds of intramurals; Fraternity brothers against fraternity pledges!

At last spring came to grace our campus fair. And what could be more fitting than a brightly shined car and sparkling shoes; the sorority pledges had their chance too!

In fraternities, the final testing lighted the midnight oils, and the brothers of all three learned once again about the battle of spring vs. study. Spring formals were planned, yearly reports were written and term papers were typed. The room itself was a continually growing mess.

In the dorms, the final testing lighted the midnight oils, and the girls of both dorms tried to push thoughts of Spring formal dates and gowns out of their heads and substitute thoughts of German and geometry, but perhaps spring will win anyway. And the room itself was a continually growing mess!

And thus passes the Centennial year . . . different from all the rest of the years to those who wish it so, but to the campus itself it was just another Fall, Winter and Spring. We, the contemporaries of the period, will remember. And yet we will also thank the unchanging, unremembering, nonforgetting campus of Susquehanna University.
